The year has a way of accelerating at certain points, doesn’t it?

I find that by mid-spring—i.e. now—there is a major time warp at play. On the year in Israel in rabbinic school, they refer to this well-known springtime phenomenon as the 3 Ps: Purim, Passover, and packing. Once Purim hits sometime in March, it’s just a blink of an eye until Passover arrives and then it feels like mere days until it’s time to pack and return to America in late May. While the fall might run long, spring runs short—and often with additional emotional impact.

Both here at TBE and in your own lives you might find yourself racing from holiday to holiday to end-of-year commemorations and celebrations. (Let alone once you add sports, clubs, birthday parties, and family obligations into the mix!) We have many programs, ceremonies, and rituals on our calendar as our Masa students finish out their year of learning and fun. For our teens, who gather to connect with Judaism and each other through both Masa Teen and BETY, we have confirmation and graduation coming as we prepare to say l’hitraot to our seniors. No matter what your age, I do hope you’ll come join us in these communal moments marking the passage of time. Perhaps it’s time you need as well to look back and reflect on your journey and accomplishments of this past year!

One of my favorite opportunities to engage with TBE congregants and take a moment apart from the rush of daily life is at our annual Women’s Retreat, which is now in its third year! (Men, if you are interested in an amazing retreat of your own, please reach out and be part of designing it!) We’ll be gathering on Friday night, May 10, at the beautiful, renovated Trumbull and Porter Hotel in Corktown to enjoy 23 hours of Shabbat together. We conclude with havdallah at 5pm on Saturday, allowing you to be anywhere in Metro Detroit for dinner by 6:30pm. We’re booking up fast so please contact me now (yes, now!) if you’d like to be part of this relaxing and energizing overnight getaway.

Wishing you all an invigorating and not-too-fast spring,
Judaism is a community-based religion at its core. Through the synagogue, families have incredible opportunities to meet a variety of people with whom they can share holidays, life-cycle moments, and other experiences essential to their religious and spiritual lives.

Perhaps more importantly, the synagogue doesn’t merely consist of a building. It’s a community center in the most meaningful sense of the words. It’s where my child (and so many others) are taught to love and embrace Judaism, and to enjoy the many wonderful holidays and traditions our religion boasts - including our recent incredible Purim events. It’s where we read Torah together, learn, sing, and pray together. It’s also where we find great comfort, taking us in from our daily routines and pressures as soon as we walk through its friendly doors.

We’ve all chosen to join Temple Beth El and agreed to financially and spiritually support it because we want the synagogue in our lives. We understand the value Temple Beth El affords each and every one of us as members. Within its own walls and beyond, Temple Beth El serves to perpetuate the amazing sense of community that Judaism celebrates. From its eldest to its youngest members, Temple Beth El brings us closer together not just as Jews, but as an entire community committed to keeping our spirit alive.

Community, connection, education, spiritual expression: while there’s no simple formula for creating an atmosphere conducive to all those things, Temple Beth El is a true sanctuary that benefits all of us in wondrous ways.
DESCENDENT OF FIRST PRESIDENT RETURNS WITH HER OWN STORY

Jacob Silberman was the very first president of Beth El. Not only that, he returned again to serve as our third president as well! His big portrait can be found next to the sanctuary foyer alongside his wife. The Silberman family was there at the beginning of Temple’s history, Jacob Silberman was a founding member and his storefront for Silberman and Hirsch Cigar Manufacturing in Detroit even served as a temporary location for our congregation before we officially purchased a building.

Today, Jacob Silberman’s great-great-granddaughter Carol Levin has retraced her roots back to Temple Beth El. In 2017, Carol visited the archives and took a picture next to her family’s portraits. After doing research in the archives, she was able to find another descendant of Jacob Silberman and was able to meet him last year.

This month, Carol Levin will do an interactive reading of her book Haggadah Regatta, a colorful Passover Haggadah, to MASA students! Carol wrote this story for her own grandchildren, who are the great-great-great-grandchildren of Jacob Silberman! The book follows a vibrant adventure of two kids, a boy and a goat and allows for a playful Storytime. This Haggadah is perfect for kids 3 and up.

SUNDAY, APRIL 27
2:00 PM

Set in London of the 1660s and the early twenty-first century, this winner of the National Jewish Book Award and a USA Today bestseller is the interwoven tale of two women of remarkable intellect. Ester Velasquez is an emigrant from Amsterdam who is permitted to scribe for a blind rabbi just before the plague hits the city. Helen Watt, an ailing historian with a love of Jewish history, is summoned by a former student to view a cache of newly discovered seventeenth-century Jewish documents. When she enlists the help of Aaron Levy, an American graduate student as impatient as he is charming, she embarks on a last project: to determine the identity of the documents’ scribe, the elusive “Aleph.” Electrifying and ambitious, The Weight of Ink is about women separated by centuries, and the choices and sacrifices both must make in order to reconcile the life of the heart and mind.

MARY EINSTEIN SHAPERO LECTURE
NOT EVERYONE IS PREPARED TO REMAKE THEMSELVES: NAME CHANGING IN NEW YORK CITY IN THE 21ST CENTURY
TUESDAY, MAY 28
7:00 PM

Join us for the annual Mary Einstein Shapero Lecture with special guest, Kirsten Fermaglich, associate professor of history and Jewish Studies at Michigan State University. In New York City in the 20th century, Jews officially changed their names at a much higher rate than other groups. Antisemitism and Jewish desires for upward mobility combined to help propel this phenomenon. But by the 21st century, name changing had become a very different phenomenon, one that affected poor people of color disproportionately and for very different reasons, although racism still plays an important role in name changing today. She has written about American Holocaust memory, antisemitism in the United States, and Jews and feminism. She is also co-editor of the journal American Jewish History, with Adam Mendelsohn and Daniel Soyer. For more information or to RSVP, contact Laura at lwilliams@tbeonline.org or 248.851.1100.

Did you know?

MIRIAM’S CUP is a new ritual object for our seder tables. Filled with water, it is a symbol of Miriam’s Well, said to be a magical source of water that followed the Israelites for forty years in the wilderness.

PASSING MATZAH is a Moroccan custom where they pass matzah over the heads of the seder participants, an allusion to the Angel of Death who “passed over” the Jewish homes on the night of the tenth plague.

There is an AFGHANI CUSTOM of seder participants hitting each other with scallions when they sing the refrain from Dayenu. This custom is a reference to the “onions and garlic” (Numbers 11:5) that the Israelites in the desert missed from their Egyptian diet. They simulate the whips of the taskmasters and we are reminded not to forget the hardships of Egyptian bondage.

MARLO FOGELMAN
Marlo Fogelman, daughter of Shelly Fogelman, is a 2019 Pinnacle Honoree and was honored for Achievement in Entrepreneurship by the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce at the Annual Pinnacle Awards in February. Marlo founded the Marlo Marketing Agency in 2004. Fourteen years later, Marlo has become a leading integrated marketing agency, with offices in Boston and New York, serving international, national, and regional clients ranging from major hotel properties to national snack brands, beverages to beauty products, and financial services to urban development groups.

SUSIE WEINER
This summer, Susie Weiner, Director of our Early Childhood Center, will become the new Vice President of Administration on the National Board of Early Childhood Educators of Reform Judaism (ECE-RJ). Susie was nominated for and elected into this position by early childhood educators across the country. In her position, Susie will help connect educators nationwide with one another, as well as disseminate cutting edge research and best practices in Jewish early childhood education. We are proud of Susie’s hard work and acknowledgement of her excellence in her field!

JAN MAZZARA
Jan Mazzara, a friend of Temple Beth El, has been a dedicated volunteer at the Sisterhood Braille Bindery for over 20 years, displaying special talents without which the Bindery could not function. She is a Braille transcriber certified through the Library of Congress’s National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped. The job of a Braille transcriber is to translate printed text into Braille for blind and low-vision readers.

DR. MICHAEL STONE & NANCY STONE
Temple Beth El congratulates Nancy and Dr. Michael Stone who were both recognized as leaders in their respective fields in Hour Detroit Magazine. Nancy, who is partner at Rotter & Stone, was recommended by her peers to be among the top lawyers in Michigan and named one of the Leading Women Lawyers in February’s issue. Michael, who is an Otolaryngologist (ear, nose & throat), was named among the “Top Docs” in the 2018 list.

The ECE-RJ is the early childhood arm of the Union for Reform Judaism (URJ) and is committed to building vibrant, contemporary and inclusive Jewish early childhood educational communities. The ECE-RJ supports and promotes the professional growth of Jewish early childhood educators.

Mazel tov to this amazing power couple!

Marlo Fogelman was one of eight women honored this year with a Pinnacle Award for outstanding achievement in the workplace, demonstrated leadership that has made a difference, and commitment to enhancing the quality of life in the Greater Boston region.

Blind children for whom the Bindery prints and distributes Braille books without charge owe Jan a debt of gratitude for her inspired and loyal work at the Bindery.

36 UNDER 36 HONOREES
This year, George Roberts (son of Shelley and Jeff Roberts) and Keith Schonberger (son of Elaine and Mark Schonberger) were 2 of the 36 Under 36 Honorees.

More than 70 names of young professionals making an impact in the Detroit Jewish community were submitted to this program, sponsored by The Well and the Detroit Jewish News. The nominees were sent to a panel of impartial volunteer judges who had the difficult task of choosing 36 names from the list of impressive submissions.
