GLAZER

INSTITUTE ON JUDAISM

Our Glazer Institute is the longest-running Interfaith Institute in the country, celebrating Temple Beth El's historic and growing commitment to interfaith relations.

Sacred Space in a Virtual World

Exploring Albert Kahn's magnificent Temple Beth El (1922) as a pathway to understanding how our Houses of Worship can serve the evolving needs of our communities.

FEATURING

DR. SAMUEL
D. GRUBER

Founder and Managing
Director of Gruber
Heritage Global

DR. GRUBER is perhaps America's foremost authority on synagogue architecture, and a sought-after expert on religious and cultural heritage preservation. One hundred years ago, when Albert Kahn designed Temple Beth El, religious buildings in the Detroit area were responding to a world of growing industrialization, expanding travel realities, and fears about social order after WWI. Just like today, when people turn to their religious communities as a source of hope and determination, the structures we sit in offer an intentional framework that can both contribute to and limit the nature of our sacred relationships.

This year's Glazer Institute will include vibrant learning, as well as interactive conversation about evolving interfaith engagement in our city.
